UWF FIELD SCHOOL-PROGRESS SUMMER 2017

Underwater and terrestrial students participating in the UWF field schools this summer are off to a slow start because of rain, rain and more rain.

Underwater students will be diving on the EPII and EPIII shipwrecks and will be diving on some of the targets located last year during the magnetometer surveys.

Two groups of terrestrial students are excavating on the Luna Settlement site with a different focus. Dr. John Worth’s students are continuing excavations in an area of high 16th century artifact concentration. They have continued to recover 16th century material including a thimble and a crossbow shot made of clay (bodoque). Dr. Ramie Gougeon’s students are excavating a Native American shell midden which contains Woodland period ceramics and animal bone preserved by the alkaline environment.

GRANT PROPOSAL FOR EXCAVATING EP III SHIWRECK

By the time you read this, UWF Archaeology Institute will have submitted a proposal to the Florida Division of Historical Resources for a Special Category Grant proposing to conduct archaeological excavations for 2 years on the Emanuel Point III shipwreck, and to search for additional ships from Luna’s doomed fleet in Pensacola Bay. Included in the proposal is continued analysis of archival resources to better understand the cultural and historical context of the fleet and the settlement attempt, diving on targets already located during previous surveys and continuing to survey nearby sections of the Pensacola Bay. In addition, analysis and conservation of artifacts recovered will be included. Archaeological field work would begin fall of 2018 with the award of this Special Category Grant and would allow continued work and research for 2 years.

The projected research area for additional shipwrecks is threatened by development, such as the Highway 98 bridge replacement, and by hobbyist collectors and sport divers who might on purpose or by accident ruin the site for archaeological and historic research.

UWF will continue to showcase the work on the EP III shipwreck through a variety of public outlets. This will be easier to share video and even on site visits by qualified divers and the press than with the 2 previous shipwrecks because it is in shallow water with good visibility.

PAS submitted a letter of support to the Florida Division of Historical Resources for the UWF
